Is Loch Ness Productions the Sole Source of the products you sell?

Shows we have produced

Loch Ness Productions is the "sole source" for our own shows — in that we are the producers. We created or acquired them. We're the copyright owners.

We offer these show packages for sale in our catalog and on our Web site, listing our manufacturer's suggested retail price. We are the manufacturer, after all.

There are some hardware vendors (those who sell projector systems and such, which we do not) who resell our shows to their customers, usually installing the shows as a customer service when they make new sales of projector systems. In theory, one of these vendors could also resell our shows to a customer who did not buy their specific projector system. In practice, this does not usually happen.

The reason why a "sole source" classification exists is to ensure that a product cannot be obtained for a lower price elsewhere. If that's what you're looking for, you'll have a hard time finding sources for Loch Ness Productions shows specifically encoded for your projector system — aside from us and possibly your own hardware vendor. Even in that latter case, it's likely they will be reselling our shows at our suggested retail prices.

Besides, the pixels are fresher coming right from the source, and that's us.

Show project collaborations with others

Loch Ness Productions sometimes partners with other producers to create special versions, edits, and translations of their shows. We are usually the "sole source" for these projects, although sometimes our collaborating partners will also market our versions too. You can find a full list of the shows we distribute on our Web site.

Shows produced by others

Loch Ness Productions may not be the "sole source" for shows created by other producers that we simply resell. You can find a full list of the shows we distribute on our Web site.

MUSIC BACK-PACK Library

Loch Ness Productions is the "sole source" for the music in our production music library.

Software

Loch Ness Productions is the "sole source" for IMGWarper for Windows, and the LNP Dome Theater Compendium.

Loch Ness Productions may not be the "sole source" for software packages we simply resell, including VLCWarper.

Geodesium albums

Loch Ness Productions is the "sole source" for Geodesium albums — in that we're the producers. We created them. We're the copyright owners. When you get Geodesium albums from us, they're coming right from the source. We sell them to the public at our manufacturer's suggested retail price. We are the manufacturer, after all.

Yes, there are other distributors and resellers of our Geodesium albums. They all buy them from us wholesale, and sell them retail. Some sell them for less than our manufacturer's suggested retail price, others for more. We list many of these other resellers on our Web site.
